UPDATE

This month we want to use this space to recommend a good read for you. Our dear friend Kaitlyn Scott recently published a book that details the season of physical suffering she has endured and how she coped with it.

Life can be very hard and sometimes the battles we face seem to have no end. It has been said that when the road we are on gets hard, the best thing we can do is find help from those who have already walked it. Kaitlyn has walked that road victoriously and because of this has much to offer those who may feel like their dark night will never end.

The book is entitled:

This Too Shall Pass

(Discovering Hope In Seasons Of Suffering)

It is available on Amazon and will be a blessing to any who are going through a prolonged season of physical problems.

God is faithful!

FEATURE ARTICLE: "Then Jesus Came"

WARNING: You are entering the "TRUTH ZONE". You may not like what you read. At times it may make you feel uncomfortable. That is not my goal. My goal is to speak truth that will provide spiritual guidance for you and your family in a time of great spiritual darkness.

You can be sure that what you read here will be TRUTH!

I shall never forget the feeling I got when we hung up the phone. I had just been told that our two-month-old great-grandson Jaxon, had been diagnosed with Covid. I felt like I had just been sucker punched in the gut. Yes, I was concerned for him, but the thing that overwhelmed me was the thought of what kind of world he and all my children and grandchildren are inheriting. Because I will soon turn 80 I can compare the world I grew up in with what we have today, and I tell you the truth, this is a different planet.

Today our world is terribly broken. It is not a good place nor a safe place to live. In fact, I cannot think of even one thing in our world today that I would consider better than the world I grew up in. Not one thing! We claim to have made great medical advancements, yet we have more disease, sickness, and death than ever. Many of our politicians are corrupt and seem hell-bent on destroying our nation. The threat of nuclear war looms great on the horizon and our economy is in shambles. Mass shootings have become a regular part of the evening news and crime is out of control. Children can't even walk alone to a neighbor's house for fear of being kidnapped and sold into the sex trade. Our world is ugly and very broken!

These are the thoughts that rushed through my mind when I learned that Jax had been diagnosed with Covid and I must confess, I felt overwhelmed. Questions in my mind raged like the winds of a hurricane. How will my children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren survive? How will they ever afford to buy a home and raise a family? What new deadly plague will their generation have to deal with? With each question, the darkness seemed to grow darker.

THEN JESUS CAME

I had been so caught up in worry that I hadn't even thought to ask for His help, but suddenly He was there. His presence stilled the raging wind and brought calm to my troubled soul. Once stillness prevailed I heard Him ask me a question. He said, "Have I provided for you?" As I considered His question, I became aware of how faithful He has been to Miss Linda and me. We started out as two young kids who had nothing but each other and Jesus but having Jesus proved to be more than enough. He has done exceeding and abundantly above and beyond what we could have ever dreamed.

As I considered all this I heard Him say, "If they will serve me, I will provide for them the same as I have provided for you." Immediately I was filled with confidence and faith that no matter how dark and dangerous the world becomes, God will always be faithful to those who have made him Lord. He will never change and He will always be more than enough.

I am happy to report that Mr. Jaxon has fully recovered and each day grows cuter than the law should allow.
